Sweeping views of Sydney Harbour provide the backdrop to this cosmopolitan kitchen. Situated in a penthouse apartment that was extensively gutted and refitted, this kitchen was designed for a client who has spent time in the UK and France and who used European style as inspiration.

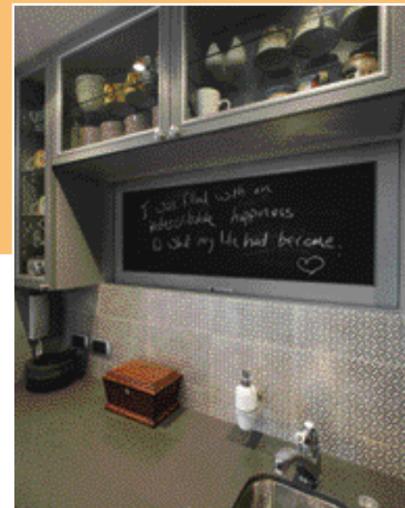

The interiors include dark timber finishes, matching timber drawers and accessories and many modern hardware features in vogue in modern kitchens.

A feature tile, handmade in Italy and incorporated into the splashback, inspired the distinctive elliptical-shaped island that takes centre stage.

A clever lift-up sliding panel allows whoever is in the kitchen to continue talking with family and guests in the living areas, while a walk-in pantry uses a slide-away pocket door system to save on space while providing seamless access.

The judges fell in love with this kitchen's "unsurpassed quality and faultless workmanship".

"There are some great innovative ideas incorporated into the design with an excellent choice of fittings and fixtures to achieve the functionality required," they said.

There's nothing standard about this striking kitchen. It features an EcoSmart Cube fireplace, a gold leaf Bisazza-tiled splashback, tan cowhide leather barstools and granite benchtops.

Mood lighting, a well-stocked wine cabinet and the best Gaggenau and Miele appliances come together to create a kitchen that is practical but supremely fashionable.

The central island bench incorporates the fire at one end, creating an easy and uninterrupted flow from living to kitchen area. The gold leaf splashback creates an interesting feature out of a surface that is often mundane and the unusual bleached and dried coconut husk pendant light fittings over the island bench are a further talking point.

The judges described the choice of materials in this kitchen as innovative.

This kitchen is completely unrecognisable from the original — beige polyurethane and walnut grain Laminex cupboards, a plain white splashback and beige benchtop. To replace the old kitchen, the owner wanted something unique and interesting and that's been delivered in spades.
